Michelle Gillespie Promoted to Director of Human Resources

Parkersburg, WV –St. Joseph's Hospital has recently announced the promotion of Michelle Gillespie, Assistant Human Resources Director, to Director of Human Resources. Gillespie began her career at St. Joseph's Hospital in 2000 as a Human Resources Generalist, before taking on roles as a Nurse Recruiter and most recently as the Assistant Human Resources Director.

"We are proud to have Michelle's leadership and dedication to St. Joseph's Hospital as the new Director of Human Resources," explained Jack Julius, CEO of St. Joseph's Hospital. "Michelle is well respected by the employees – many of them she has personally interviewed and hired during her tenure in Human Resources."

"I'm very excited to serve our Hospital family as the new Director of Human Resources," stated Gillespie. "Our department takes great pride in being a resource for our employees and those seeking to join our hospital team."

Gillespie grew up in Marietta, Ohio and graduated from Marietta College. She received her Master's in Strategic Leadership from Mountain State University. Gillespie and her husband Joe reside in Amesville, Ohio.
